

Bilgola Research from TROVE

Further:

MR. STANLEY EDWARD WALLACE, who was drowned through his efforts to save his young daughter at a Bilgola beach, N.S.W., last week, was nephew of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Clayton of East Devonport, and was the third son of the late Jas. and Mrs. Wallace of Middle Park, Victoria, and formerly of Devonport. He saw active service during the war, being a member of the 10th Battalion Band. The "Sun" give the following account of the tragedy: "Never mind me, take the child," said Mr. Stanley Edward Wallace, of 10, Fullers road, Chatswood, while struggling in the surf of Bilgola Beach to day, attempting to save his young daughter. He was drowned, but the girl was saved. Three men who went to their assistance reached the beach only after a long fight. When Mr. Wallace and his daughter went swimming, Mrs. Wallace, watched them from the beach. Suddenly they were caught in an undertow, and a man named Pinnett, of Spit road, Mosman, went to their assistance. "Never mind me, take the child." Mr. Wallace gasped, pushing the girl to him. A man named Jacobs, of Norton street, Leichhardt, then swam out and held the father afloat, but both were almost exhausted when a third rescuer, Jacobs' brother, reached them. An intense struggle for safety followed, while Mrs. Wallace, helpless, watched from the beach. The three men were almost thrown on some rocks, eventually reached the beach, but Mr. Wallace was dead."
