COULD NOT CONTACT EXCHANGE TO

SUMMONS AMBULANCE

SYDNEY, Monday.—For over an hour Mrs. Le Gollian, of Iluka

Road, Palm Beach, and neighbours! attempted to contact the Palm Beach telephone exchange to-night to summon an ambulance from Manly to come to a 12-year-old son.

Finally, in desperation, she ran to the home of Dr. Brown, who had to go one mile to the ambulance station and return with ambulance men.

Harold Le Gollian was admitted to the Manly District Hospital suffering from a deeply lacerated scalp, serious abrasions to the arms and back, severe shock and provable fractured ribs. His condition to-night was serious. The lad was returning from school on a bicycle when, it is alleged, he was forced off the road and finally thrown from his machine by a passing car.

Alert for lost fishermen

NEWCASTLE, Tues. — Two fishermen who left Palm Beach for Newcastle yesterday in a 38-foot flush deck launch have not been heard of since.

Police have alerted all coastal stations from Sydney as far north as Forster. The fishermen are William Jenkins, about 34, of Iluka Road, Palm Beach, and Barry Hewlett, 20, of Barrenjoey Road, Palm Beach. Their launch, Christina, is yellow, and has a small deck-house set in astern.

Mr. Kenneth Wardrop of Palm Beach, who is at present at Stockton, told Newcastle police today that Christina left Palm Beach yesterday between 6 a.m. and 7 a.m. He travelled to Newcastle by car, where he was to have joined Jenkins and Hewlett to prawn off the coast.

"Christina would take about eight hours to travel from Palm Beach to Newcastle," he said. "It has only one sail, a lug sail, which would be used to run before a wind.

"Jenkins and Hewlett are both good seamen. The first thing they would have done-if they had landed would have been to have phoned Palm Beach or me.

"The weather has made it highly improbable that they would have been taken out to sea, even if the engine broke down. "Yesterday and again today the winds have been from the east, and would have brought them into the shore."

He said Christina had enough food on board for three weeks, 20 gallons of water, and about 30 gallons of petrol. Newcastle police may tomorrow ask the R.A.A.F. station at Rathmines to send out a seaplane in search of the launch. Alert for lost fishermen (1950, July 12). Palm Beach RSL started off as a shed, it was originally built in Lucinda Park, Nabilla Rd Palm Beach. The shed, built from weather board by Dick Martin, Jack Martin and Fred Verrills, was then moved to Barrenjoey Rd, the current Club site, sitting approximately where the bistro dinner room is now. The land purchased in Barrenjoey Rd was instigated by Carl Gow. The little Club traded there from the very early 50's until the current Club opened in December 1957. The original shed was removed by Peter Verrills and Bill Martin then transported by Bill's semi-trailer to Wisemans Ferry and there it was used as a cabin for the Verrills family & friends for their water skiing holidays. In the early days the Club (shed) opened daily at 4pm and operated on an honour system, any purchases were fixed up on pay day.

The Club as it is today was built by R. Martin & Sons. It was opened on the 14th December 1957. The president at the time of the opening was Alf Curtis and the secretary was Ron Vance. Some of the early committee members were Harold Richardson, Ken Wardrop, Fred Verrills, Jack Martin, Bill McTaggart, Ron Vance, Jack Henman, Brian Oxenham and Chic Whitchard. Some old local family names were the Gonsalves, Martins, and Goddards. There was a big variety of local businesses including the chemist, butcher, bakers, doctors and the fruit and veg shop.

Apparently there were two garages as well. To Peter Verrills' recollection, the Palm Beach bottle shop is the only shop still operating as it was when opened. The original owners were the Goddard's.

One of Pittwater's oldest Parks is that vested in Iluka Park at Palm Beach. Gazetted in November 1885 for use as a school grounds, the only land vested for the public prior to that at the Barrenjoey end of the peninsula was Governor Phillip Park, gazetted to the crown in 1881, and the northern end of Snapperman Beach under Observation Point, gazetted for a land place

Further along adjoining the Palm Beach ferry wharf and overlooking Snapperman Beach is Pittwater Park

Snapperman Beach Reserve, which was a part of this estate, was dedicated as a Public Recreation Area (Certificate of Title - Volume 4061 Folio 122) on October 5th, 1927. The Reserve was transferred to the then Warringah Council on October 5th 1927. It was then transferred into Pittwater Council's name on 8 August 2000.

Access to the Reserve is via a laneway six (6) metres wide off Iluka Road between numbers 100 and 102 Iluka Road, Palm Beach. Pittwater Council owns the land in Fee Simple. The adjoining land on the eastern boundary is residential (Lots 12 – 18 DP 12979). The land to the west is the foreshore transition zone to the Pittwater estuary, being unreserved Crown land. At the present time the recognised boundary between the Reserve and Crown Land remains 'High Water Mark' as per DP 12979.

Snapperman Beach Reserve is classified as community land, which means that it is intended to be managed for use by the community and may not be leased for more than 21 years and cannot be sold.

In a report prepared by the Royal Botanic Gardens for the 2006 POM, the Screw Pines were identified as extraordinary species because they are extremely large specimens in the Sydney area and because they are a pair, one male and one female.

Lucinda Park, named after the steam yacht that visited The Basin as part of the In March 1891, the Drafting Committee (including Samuel Griffith, Edmund Barton, Charles Kingston and John Downer) revised the draft Constitution on board the paddlesteamer Lucinda when it anchored in The Basin. This 1891 draft later served as the starting point for the Convention of 1897-98.

Their stay at The Basin is commemorated by the Commonwealth Government by a plaque that remains installed in the sandstone wall of the shelter pavilion.

This states:

" On Saturday 28th March 1891 the Queensland Government paddle steamer, "Lucinda", cruised the lower reaches of the Hawkesbury River and anchored in the Basin. Work achieved on the vessel by colonial leaders, Sir Samuel Griffith and Messrs Barton and Kingston during that day and over Easter 1891 led to breaking the deadlock over contentious issues which eventually led to the adoption of the Australian Constitution. The Inspector's report of April 25, 1885, described the two acre site for the new school as commencing at a telegraph pole marked X, 22 chains (442 metres) from the grave on Chinaman's beach (Snapperman Beach) along the road to Careel Bay. As this was part of the Bassett Darley Estate, a price of £ 25 per acre with a frontage to the water, was deemed ample value for the land.

In December, the land was officially resumed, and a building was constructed by Mr F. Collins at a cost of £180. This next schoolhouse measured 36 feet x 20 feet x 10 feet high, and it was made of hardwood timber, with a galvanised corrugated iron roof.

James Booth removed what was left of the school in 1909 – by 1922(Listed on subdivision plans as 'Reserve' following the 1909/1910 commenced Warringah Shire Council plan to ensure all reserves or green spaces allocated for the public, Trafalgar Park for example, were under their control, although this remained state government land.

Concerns about the public's permanent access to Pittwater commenced as soon as advertisements, lithographs and the May 1922 Real Property Act Notice appeared. This resulted in the establishment of a 30 feet section of public recreation space to the shoreline for the public at Sandy Point (Sand Point) and the establishment of Pittwater Park, next to the Palm Beach ferry wharf and on Snapperman Beach itself, again for the public to have access, permanently. The range of homes built right onto Snapperman Beach at the south end is a visual reminder of what could have occurred right along this stretch.

Similarly Palm Beach's Bible Garden, established and given to the community for a visual access to Palm Beach, has a same raison de etre for being made and kept.

This took years and a few appearances in court though and was at first expressed, in this newspaper item, as:

FRONTAGE THREATENED

Palm Beach Anxious

Lovers of Palm Beach are becoming concerned at the threatened mar-ring of one of its chief beauty spots, the delightful run of gently shelving beach in Pittwater running from the jetty south to Careel Bay, the play-ground and paddling area designated by nature for the use and pleasure of child and grown-up. It appears that the wooded triangular area bounded on two sides by this beach and by the main Sydney-Newport-Palm Beach-road on the third, is shortly to be sold by auction subdivisionally. With the water frontage alienated, Palm Beach would become shorn of one of its jewels, and all Sydney may be said to be interested in the avoidance of such vandalism. There is an urgent duty to be performed. The public must accept the trusteeship of nature's gifts. The alienation of such beauty spots must be prevented, and for all generations their charm should be preserved as far as may be. It is understood that the Warringah Shire Council is moving in the matter, and has arranged a conference with the owners of this land — trustees in a deceased estate. That the interests of the many should be sacrificed to the casual interests of a few — that the public should be barred for all time from this beautiful natural playground, to allow a few to erect their boatsheds and slips across the beach, and in so doing convert a thing of beauty and delight into a broken shoreline of sheds and shacks, is unthinkable. A compromise, a give and take arrangement of some sort, must surely be arrived at. FRONTAGE THREATENED (1922, February 17). The Sun (Sydney, NSW : 1910 - 1954), p. 10 (FINAL EXTRA). MONEY FOR PARKS.

STRICTLY LIMITED.

MINISTERIAL STATEMENT.

Yesterday the Minister for Lands (Mr. W. B. Wearne) refused a request by the Lord Mayor and Dr. Mary Booth that the site of the P.F.A. premises at Kirribilli should be converted at the expense of the Government, into a harbourside park. He explained that lack of funds left no alternative. A similar reply was given to members of the Warringah Shire Council, who had asked that portions of Inner Palm roach should be purchased for use as a watering-place.

Mr. Wearne explained that the Federal Government and the North Sydney council were not favourable in their attitude towards the P.F.A. proposal. However, he was powerless to help them. A sum of £10,000 had been provided to be used for the purposes of resumption and assistance to park lands covering the whole State, while he had before him at that moment claims for the expenditure of over a quarter of a million pounds. "But," he added, any other suggestion that you might put before me in connection with the utilisation of Crown lands as parks will receive my consideration. But when it comes to expending money, neither I nor the State Government can help you."

Dr. Mary Booth; There are already slums at Milson's Point, and there are so many people living in flats that the children are just BE badly off for playgrounds as the children of the slums.

"Well," interrupted the Lord Mayor, "I think we must resign ourselves to this: Our only chance is that some patriotic people will come along and buy the site for the people and for the little kiddies."

INNER PALM BEACH.

In reply to the representations of the Warringah

Shire Council that land on the smooth side of Pittwater, known as Inner Palm Beach, should be resumed, the Minister said; "I have been out there, and I have given the proposal every consideration, but I have had many similar requests since yours, and these force me to the conclusion that, with the limited sum of money at my disposal, I cannot help you. If such a thing was possible, and I gave you the money," proceeded the Minister, "there would be an outcry, and it would be said You can find money for Palm Beach, where the rich people go in their motor cars, but you- cannot find money to provide spaces for the poor in the congested city.' "

Cr. W. K. Quick; Is there any possibility of your resuming the land, and then being repaid by us?

The Minister. To what sum would you be prepared to go, assuming that we resumed the land and allowed you to pay us back?

Cr. Quirk: Any reasonable sum inside of £5000.

Mr. Wearne asked that the shire council should commit themselves to a definite proposal embodied in a resolution. He would then give the proposal further attention. MONEY FOR PARKS. ## DISTRICT COURT*

(Before Judge White.) '

A PITT WATER SUBDIVISION

In the appeal under section-841 of the Local Government Act, on behalf of the executrices and trustees of the estate of the late Charles John Edward Forssberg, against the decision and disapproval of the Warringah Shire Council of a plan and design submitted by the appellants of a subdivision of three sections of the Bennett Darley Estate, fronting Pittwater Bay, the matter was allowed to stand over generally, to allow the appellants to consider whether they were prepared to allow three means of access to a frontage of 900 feet, or two to a frontage of 800 feet, with a depth of 30 feet above high water mark. His Honor said he thought some provision should be made for purchasers of the back portions of the subdivision for access to the water-side, and also some provision for certain portions of the frontage to Pittwater Bay for public recreation. Taking into consideration the area and situation generally of the land, it was proposed to subdivide, he was of opinion that an 800 feet frontage, with a depth of 30 feet divided into two portions should be allowed, or to divided into three portions, the frontage should be 900 feet. He did not think the appellants should be called upon to give up free of cost a 30 feet reservation along the whole frontage of their property. DISTRICT COURT. ### A PITTWATER SUBDIVISION.

Hearing was concluded of the appeal under section 3.1 of the Local Government Act, on behalf of Catherine Forssberg, Christina Elizabeth Forssberg, and Valetta Forssborg, executrices and trustees of the estate of Charles John Edward Forssberg, of Stancombe, Addison-road, Manly, against the decision and disapproval of the Warringah Shire Council, of a plan and design submitted by the appellants of a subdivision of three allotments of the Bassett Darley Estate, the lands having a frontage of about three quarters of a mile to the foreshores of Pittwater Bay. The respondent council disapproved of the plan on the grounds that it was not in accordance with ordinance 32 of the Local Government Act, 1919, and that in its opinion the amount of public, garden, and recreation space proposed to be provided by the subdivision was Insufficient. The council also asked that there should be a 30ft reservation above high water mark along the foreshores, and that the menus of access from the rear allotments in the subdivision to the foreshores should be 66ft wide in every instance, instead of 20ft, as provided In the plan for certain of the passages. Mr. Monnnun (Instructed by Mr. G. S. MacKellar) appeared for the appellants; and Mr. Halse Rogers (Instructed by Messrs. J. W. Maund and Christie) for the respondent council.

When the matter was last before the Court, his Honor suggested that, taking into consideration the area and situation generally of the land it was proposed to subdivide, a water frontage of 800ft above high water mark, with a depth of 30ft divided into two portions, should be allowed by the appellants, or It divided into three portions, a frontage of 900ft, as provision for purchasers of the back portion of the subdivision for access to the waterside, and as some provision for portions of the frontage to Pittwater Bay for public recreation. The matter was then allowed to stand over to allow the appellants to consider his suggestion.

His Honor was now informed that the appellant trustees had come to the conclusion that the suggestion, if carried out, would not be advantageous to the estate, and that they preferred to adhere to the original plan of subdivision. He said he thought a plan embodying the suggestion made by him with regard to water frontage reservations, and a provision that the means of access to such water frontages should be 66ft wide, should be submitted to the Court, and if such a plan were submitted he would approve of it. No order was made as to costs. DISTRICT COURT. (1922, November 2). The Sydney Morning Herald (NSW : 1842 - 1954), p. 6. Retrieved from <http://nla.gov.au/nla.news-article16035268>

FURNITURE ON TIME-PAYMENT.

IMPORTANT DECISION OF THE FULL COURT.

The defendant's appeal in the case of Wallace and wife v. Forssberg came on for hearing in Banco yesterday, before their Honours the Chief Justice and Sir George Innes. The action was tried before Sir George Innes at the New Masonic-hall in March last, and resulted in a verdict for the plaintiffs, damages £260. It was an action of trespass brought by the proprietors of a boarding-house against a furniture dealer carrying on business in William-street for, without proper cause, seizing furniture which they had hired from him on the time-payment system. Mr. Hoydon, for the defendant, now "moved for a rule nisi on the ground that the verdict was against the weight of evidence. The Chief Justice, in giving judgment, said : I have no doubt that the verdict was right on this point and ought not to be disturbed. The covenant, to which attention has been drawn, in the document of June 21, 1830, is not to keep these goods in the place in which the plaintiff's were residing at the time these goods were leased to them and pay rent of that place while : the goods were there," but it would cover the goods being in any place whatever. The words of the covenant are these—" will also pay the ; landlord of the premises occupied by them the weekly rent accruing due for the same premises, and keep safe, harmless, and indemnify the said lessor and his said household furniture, goods, chattels, and effects from an levy or distraint by the landlord of the premises upon which the same shall be for the rent thereof from time to time due or accruing due." At the time of the seizure these goods were not at Albert-terrace but at Winstanley, and there appears to be, according to the evidence, no rent due for that place. Therefore, the tenants of these goods had not committed any breach of this covenant ; but it is said that, because these goods had been previously at another place, and there was rent due for that other place, therefore the owner of the goods was entitled, under this covenant, to seize them at Winstanley. I think not. It may be if they had been surreptitiously removed to that place, so as to enable the landlord of Alberto-terrace to follow the goods wherever they might be, then this point might be raised ; but it is clear from the evidence that Forssberg himself knew the goods were being removed to Winstanley, consented to their being removed there, and the landlord of Alberto-terrace also knew the goods were being removed, and so far from their being surreptitiously removed they were removed with his consent and he consented to his rent standing over until it was within the means of the plaintiffs to pay it ; and, therefore, it appears to me there was no justification at all of the seizure of the goods at Winstanley because rent was due to the landlord of Alberto-terrace. There was no rent due to the landlord of the place where the goods were at the time they were seized. It seems to me that the very words of the covenant show that the rent must be due to the landlord of the place where the goods are at the time of seizure. I think, therefore, there being no rent due to the landlord of that place, the verdict was good. Sir George Innes was of the same opinion. He thought that the verdict had dealt a very wholesome lesson to persons in the position of the defendant who, at all events, if they intended to rely on their extreme legal rights, and if they took £50 worth of furniture for £12 worth of goods, and accompanied that proceeding with circumstances of the extreme hardship which existed in this particular case, involving ruin to these poor plaintiffs—if they desired to take their extreme legal rights, they must do it within the law. This defendant was not within the law, and he must abide by the consequences. The rule nisi applied for was therefore refused. FURNITURE ON TIME-PAYMENT. (1887, May 3). A Correction.

To the Editor. Sir.-In last Saturday's issue you have reported me to have said, "That the Civil-service could be reduced by 2,000,000 pounds per annum " What I meant to impress on the electors was, " That the Civil Service could easily be reduced by the retrenching of high paid officers (that hardly do anything for their money) to the extent of £200,000 per annum-without any inconvenience ; and that with honest and judicious expenditure of our revenue that the cost of Government might easily be reduced by £2,000,000 annually ; and then, according to our population, allowing for this large reduction, our expenses would be heavy in comparison with other countries."

Trusting you will favor me with inserting these few lines.

Captain Charles Forssberg, of Manly, entertained some of the returned soldiers of Manly district at a trip to the Hawkesbury Agricultural College on Monday last. They were met at the college by Principal Potts, who gave them a hearty welcome. He personally showed them over the grounds, giving them information of the different branches and the working of same. The lads took a very great interest in all shown them, and, true to their instinct, most particular attention was paid to the orchard with the fruit trees all bearing. When taking their seats in the dining-hall the college lads, several of whose comrades are away doing their duty at the front, gave the Manly boys three hearty cheers, which made the hall ring. Captain Forssberg thanked Principal Potts for his kindness, and the Manly soldiers on leaving gave him three hearty cheers. They all arrived back in Manly about 7 o'clock in the evening, after having spent a very pleasant and enjoyable day. All About People (1916, February 3). ### C. FORSSBERG.

One of the largest and most attractive business premises in Sydney is the furniture warehouse recently erected by Mr. C. Forssberg, in William-street. The warehouse has three spacious floors which are extensively stocked with excellent furniture of all descriptions. On the first floor - is displayed a well-chosen assortment of drawing-room suites — some covered with various shades of silk tapestry, others with Genoa velvet, &c. Here are to be found pretty occasional tables, whatnots, cabinets, and overmantels. On the second floor are endless varieties of bedroom suites in pine, cedar, ash, and walnut; of sideboards, carpets, oilcloths, and linoleums. In the basement there is every description of bedsteads and beading, of tables, safes, dressers, crockery, and everything desirable in the way of ironmongery. Several hands are kept busily engaged in the bulk stores at the rear of the premises opening up different kinds of merchandise to meet the demands of the Christmas season. Mr. Forssberg's factories, lower down William-street, are in full swing, and the output of colonial-made furniture from them every year must be very great. C. FORSSBERG . (1894, December 20). ## FORSSBERG'S.

'New shipments are being opened up every day,' one is informed when visiting Forssberg's well known' furniture warehouse in William-street. Added to the particularly fine stock they already had in hand, they are opening up cases containing the very latest designs ana models in household furniture and floor coverings. Particularly noticeable is their shipment of linoleums, which, being of -an extra quality and finish, give the .customer the choice of a wide range of patterns. The floral linoleum, looking for all the world like a rich carpet, they have stocked in endless variety, as well as those in mosaic patterns. In carpets they are showing a fine assortment in Brussels, Axm vaster, Kidderminster. Wilton pile, and also carpet squares. On view are some very solid oak and walnut sideboards, which would be worthy of a place in the finest home. In pith, cane, and tapestry drawing-room suites their latest additions show a charming novelty of design which will appeal to the house furnisher who is tired of the conventional character of his or her present furnishings. A visit to the well known and up-to-date establishment of Forssberg and Co. will be found to be of the greatest value to those who are setting up house or replenishing 1 their stock of furniture. Was a Mayor of Vaucluse

The area was first incorporated on 20 April 1860 as part of the Bellevue Ward of the Municipality of Woollahra. However, after the passing of the Municipalities Act, 1867 which allowed for residents to petition the government to secede as their own council area, the idea of a separate municipal council for the areas of Vaucluse and Watsons Bay at the northern end of the Borough of Woollahra gained ground amongst a large group of local residents. In late 1894 a petition was published in the NSW Government Gazette, calling for the area's separation as the "Borough of Vaucluse" on the basis that, among a general sense of a lack of representation and equitable distribution of rate revenue investment, "that the interests of the residents of the area ... and of the remaining portion of the said Borough of Woollahra are entirely different, and that they form virtually separate communities".<sup>[2][3]</sup>

Despite the objections of Woollahra Council, on 29 March 1895 the Borough of Vaucluse was proclaimed by the Governor of New South Wales, with the southern boundary comprising Towns Road and Bay View Hill Street and the eastern boundary being Old South Head Road.<sup>[4][5]</sup> On 15 May 1895, the first council, comprising nine aldermen in one electorate, was elected (John White the younger, Albert Jones, Harold Francis Norrie, John Dykes, Hugh Stirling Patterson, Herbert Chudleigh, David McCulloch, Charles John Edward Forssberg, William Jack), with Albert Jones elected as the first mayor at the first meeting on 21 May 1895.<sup>[6][7][8][9]</sup> The first Council Clerk, Edwin Stanhope Sautelle, was appointed on

1 June 1895.<sup>[10][11][12]</sup> With the passage of the Local Government Act 1906, borough ceased to be category of local government area and the Borough of Vaucluse was renamed the "Municipality of Vaucluse".<sup>[13]</sup>

The council first met in a temporary premises in Watsons Bay, with the old timber customs house and former Gap Inn building at 17 Military Road, Watsons Bay, serving this purpose until more permanent premises could be built.<sup>[14]</sup> In early 1909, the council voted to commission new council chambers on the Military Road site to a Free Classical design by architect, Varney Parkes.<sup>[15][16]</sup> Completed in early 1910 by builders Pocock & Stevens to a cost of £2,500, the new Town Hall was officially opened on 20 April 1910 by the Secretary for Public Works, Charles Lee.

The area around Sand Point remained in the Wentworth Estate until the 23 August 1900 when Charles John Edward Forsberg purchased over 30 acres of the original Napier Grant fronting Pittwater.

Forsberg, who was a furniture dealer with offices in William Street in the city, and his family, did not occupy the land at Palm Beach instead residing at their home in Manly. When C. J. E. Forsberg died in 1921 the Palm Beach land passed to his wife and two daughters who subdivided the land for sale in 1922

Snapperman Beach Reserve, which was a part of this estate, was dedicated as a Public Recreation Area (refer Figure 3 – Certificate of Title) in 1927. The Reserve was transferred to the then Warringah Council on 5 October 1927. It was then transferred into Pittwater Council's name on 8 August 2000. It is thought that the Pittwater foresore between Sand Point and Observation Point became known as 'Snapperman Beach' after a group of Chinese fishermen who caught and dried snapper there. The Reserve area, a narrow rectangular strip of land adjoining residential lots on the eastern boundary provides one of only a few remaining public access points to the Pittwater estuary along Snapperman Beach.

Finally, on August 1, 1898, Frank Eckman, Isaac Newman (keeper), Lizzie Smith (William Smith's wife) and Nancy Mulford (wife of Mackerel Beach orchardist) proposed that Miss A Madigan be appointed as an itinerant teacher. The school would be located in a room in Lizzie's cottage and Miss Madigan would be accommodated at the Eckmans's home for 15 shillings per week. She had been instructing the children there for 2 years, presumably as a tutor.

On December 22, 1898, the Acting Inspector visited the lighthouse and the Customs Station, with the view of establishing a school. This was vetoed due to the lack of school age children and the rough crossing of Pitt Water in bad weather. In 1899 applications by residents of Barranjoey and Careel Bay were again refused, for the same reasons.

The children continued were without the required Teacher until a proposal to use launch to transport them to school allowed Bill Sykes to tender a offer, eventually won the contract, and started the first school launch service in Australia in April 1904. For the first four months he always kept to schedule, despite rough weather. The Patonga was a thirty foot motor launch with a beam of eight feet and powered by an 8 hp Hercules engine. James Booth, a jack-of-all-trades (he built a cairn, since destroyed, on Barranjoey Headland to mark an original lighthouse site), was always interested in the Palm Beach school land. On September 28, 1898, he unsuccessfully applied to rent the two acres, offering £ 2/ 12/- per year. He tried again on March 29, 1917, that time for only One acre at 2/6d a week. In his application to start a small boat hire business, he promised not to 'put up any unsightly buildings'. Despite this remarkable environmental impact statement for that time, The Education Department still refused his application, advising that the land had been transferred to the Barrenjoey Company and later to what became the Palm Beach Land company. Today, there is still a portion of that land, Iluka Park, which has been retained forever, as a recreational area for the public, thanks to Warringah Shire Council, and its 1920's program of acquiring reserves and access to water for people, insisting the company hand over part of the land for a park. This was the site of the old school.

Documents Jervis sighted state that on April 22, 1884, Mr Smith proposed that a new school be located at Sandy Point, Palm Beach and sketched a rough map of where it should be. On it were marked the Smiths, at the bottom south-east corner of Careel Bay (Captain Smith was at the 'Bason' and Hastie, the old Collins farm school site.)

The Inspector's report of April 25, 1885, described the two acre site for the new school as commencing at a telegraph pole marked X, 22 chains (442 metres) from the grave on Chinaman's beach (Snapperman Beach) along the road to Careel Bay. As this was part of the Bassett Darley Estate, a price of £ 25 per acre with a frontage to the water, was deemed ample value for the land.

In December, the land was officially resumed, and a building was constructed by Mr F. Collins at a cost of £180. This next schoolhouse measured 36 feet x 20 feet x 10 feet high, and it was made of hardwood timber, with a galvanised corrugated iron roof.

Jervis' research shows this building was opened, officially, on January 25th, 1886: so something else must be getting 'worked' on in the area - as fishermen, or roads that drew these men to the same area just weeks later.

Five young men named Frederick Caine, Henry Johnson, John Williams, William Reilly, alias Beck, and William Lindsay, alias Lynoh, were charged with having stolen a watch, a watch key, a pocket knife, and three artificial teeth, value £4, the property of James A. Bailey. The case for the prosecution was that on the 18th instant the prisoners were seen to enter several tents near Barrenjoey, one of which was occupied by the prosecutor, a contractor; four of them went into three tents, and one (Johnson) remained outside; they came out, and went on to towards Barrenjoey ; when the men came back from work they found that their tents had been entered, and missed various articles ; they went in pursuit of the prisoners and came up with them near Barrenjoey. The prisoners ran away and were subsequently arrested near Narrabeen by Senior-constable Soby, and Constable Miller, of Manly. There was a second charge of stealing five plugs of tobacco, a silver ring, and a razor, valued 12s., the property of John Scott, from one of the tents. Some tobacco similar to that stolen, was found in the possession of some of the prisoners. Lindsay and Reilly were sentenced to a month each on each charge, and the other three to 14 days each, all the sentences to be concurrent. The two first named prisoners had been already convicted several times, and the other three bore bad characters. During the hearing of the case they conducted themselves in an impudent and flippant manner, and appeared to regard their position as the subject for amusement. POLICE. (1886, February 24). This school officially opened on January 25, 1886.

Tales from Barrenjoey states the following school furniture was forwarded per the S.S. Marramarra in the care of Mr A. Black; 4 Desks, 9 feet long, 4 Forms, 9 feet long (chairs for our younger readers - these were a long bench like those in the picture below) 1 Book-press, 4 feet x 3 feet x 18 inches deep Table, 3 feet x 2 feet, with two drawers, Bentwood chair and 24 American School-House hat pegs, No 92, on batten.

James Booth purchased the school house, dismantled and removed it, filled in all the holes, and sent the Education Department a cheque for £ 9 for the salvaged material. The nearest school was now at Newport, which those of school age either walked or rowed to.

A PITTWATER SUBDIVISION,

This was an appeal under section 341 of the Local Government Act, on behalf of Catherine Forssberg, Christina Elizabeth Forssberg, and Valetta Forssberg, executrices and trustees of the estate of Charles John Edward Forssberg, of Stancombe, Addison-road, Manly, against the decision and disapproval of the Warringah' Shire Council, of a plan and design submitted by the appellants of a subdivision of three allotments of the Bassett Darley Estate, the lands having a frontage of about three-quarters of a mile to the foreshores of Pittwater Bay.

The respondent council disapproved of the plan on the grounds that it was not in accordance with ordinance 32 of the Local Government Act, of 1919, and that in its opinion the amount of public, garden, and recreation space proposed to be provided by the subdivision was insufficient. The council also asked that there should be a 30ft reservation above high water mark along the fore-shores, and that the means of access from the rear allotments in the subdivision to the foreshores should be 66ft wide in every instance, instead of 20ft, as provided in the plan for certain of the passages. Mr. Monahan (instructed by Mr. G. S. MacKellar) appeared for the appellants; and Mr. Halse Rogers (Instructed by Messrs. J. W. Maund and Christie) for the respondent council.

A PITTWATER SUBDIVISION.

Hearing was concluded of the appeal under section 3.1 of the Local Government Act, on behalf of Catherine Forssberg, Christina Elizabeth Forssberg, and Valetta Forssberg, executrices and trustees of the estate of Charles John Edward Forssberg, of Stancombe, Addison-road, Manly, against the decision and disapproval of the Warringah Shira Council, of apian and design submitted by the appellant» of n subdivision of three allotments of the Bassett Darley Estate, the lands having a frontage of about threequarters of a mile to the foreshores of Pittwater Bay. The respondent council disapproved of the plan on the grounds that It was not in accordance with ordinance 32 of the Local Government Act, 1919, and that in its opinion the amount of public, garden, and re-creation space proposed to be provided by the subdivision was Insufficient. The council also asked that there should be a 30ft reservation above high water mark along the fore-shores, and that the menus of access from the rear allotments in the subdivision to the foreshores should be G.ft wide in every instance, instead of 20ft, as provided In the plan for certain of the passages. Mr. Monnnun (Instructed by Mr. G. S. MacKellar) appeared for the appellants; and Mr. Halse Rogers (Instructed by Messrs. J. W. Mund and Christie) for the respondent council.

When the matter was last before the Court, his Honor suggested that, taking into con-sideration the area and situation generally of the land it was proposed to subdivide, a water frontage of 800ft above high water mark, with a depth of 30ft divided into two' portion"), should be allowed by the appellants, or It divided into three portions, a frontage of 900ft, as provision for purchasers of the back portion of the subdivision for access to the waterside, and as some provision for portions of the frontage to Pittwater Bay for public recreation. The matter was then allowed to stand over to allow the appellants to consider his suggestion.

His Honor was now informed that the appellant trustees had come to the conclusion that the suggestion, if carried out, would not be advantageous to the estate, and that they preferred to adhere to the original plan of subdivision. He said he thought a plan embodying the suggestion made by him with regard to water frontage reservations, and a provision that the means of access to such water frontages should be 60ft wide, should be submitted to the Court, and If such a plan were submitted he would approve of it. No order was made as to costs. DISTRICT COURT. (1922, November 2). The Sydney Morning Herald (NSW : 1842 - 1954), p. 6. Retrieved from <http://nla.gov.au/nla.news-article16035268>

A PITT WATER SUBDIVISION.

In the appeal under section-841 of the Local Government Act, on behalf of the executrices and trustees of the estate of the late Charles John Edward Forssberg, against the decision and disapproval of the Warringah Shire Council of a plan and design submitted by the appellants of a subdivision of three sections of the Bennett Darley Estate, fronting Pitt-water Bay, the matter was allowed to stand over generally, to allow the appellants to consider whether they were prepared to allow three means of access to a frontage of 900 feet, or two to a frontage of 800 feet, with a depth of 30 feet above high water mark. His Honor said he thought some provision should be made for purchasers of the back portions of the subdivision for access to the water-side, and also some provision for certain portions of the frontage to Pittwater Bay for public recreation. Taking into consideration the area and situation generally of the land, it was proposed to subdivide, he was of opinion that an 800 feet frontage, with a depth of 30 feet divided into two portions should be allowed, or it divided into three portions, the frontage should be 900 feet. He did not think the appellants should be called upon to give up free of cost a 30 feet reservation along the whole frontage of their property. DISTRICT COURT. (1922, October 18). The Sydney Morning Herald (NSW : 1842 - 1954), p. 10. Retrieved from <http://nla.gov.au/nla.news-article16050697>

SUBDIVISION PLAN

Mandamus Granted

The Full Court yesterday granted an application to make absolute a rule nisi by which the Council of the Shire of Warringah had been called upon to show cause why a mandamus should not be granted directing the council to note its approval under seal upon a plan of subdivision forwarded on February 2, 1926, and again on December 31 last, by the trustees of the estate of the late Charles John Edward Forssberg, and to direct the shire clerk to notify the applicants that the requirements of the Local Government Act had been complied with. It was contended on behalf of the council that its action in refusing approval was justified by the failure of the trustees to show a continuation of Ilucca Road in a straight line through the subdivision. Mr. Rundell Miles and Mr. Leaver (instructed by Mr. G. A M'Kellar), appeared for the applicants, and Mr. Henry (instructed by Messrs. J. W. Maund and Kelynack) represented the respondent council. North Palm Beach Surf Lifesaving Club was founded in 1946. The club was started by local northern beaches families and regular holiday makers at the northern end of Palm Beach. In those days the area near the base of Barrenjoey Headland was a public camping ground and it was popular destination for people living on the northern beaches and families and tourists traveling the 40 kilometers from the centre of Sydney each weekend. Palm Beach remains a popular holiday destination but these days it has become the location of choice for many celebrities wanting to escape the hustle and bustle of the CBD.

The first clubhouse was very small and was located where the public amenities block now stands. A little further north in the hollow of the dunes was the boat shed and the bunkhouse.

The North Palm Beach Surf Life Saving Club reformed after WWII and by 1946 the Old Avalon Cricket Club Building was moved to a location near the present site of the club (located where the current public toilet facilities are today) and the club added verandahs. #### Palm Beach locals establish new kindergarten Thirty-five Palm Beach children between the ages of three and five years will form a guard of honor when their new kindergarten is officially opened by Mr. P. C. Spender, MHR. on October 3.

"Establishment of this kindergarten is the result of three years' hard work by local residents," secretary and organiser of the Kindergarten Committee, Mrs. Harold Daniell, said. "We are particularly delighted, as it is the first time all Palm Beach residents have been working for one project."

The new building, which will be worth about £3500, also contains a pavilion for the North Palm Beach Surf Club members and a hall which may be rented by other local organisations — the first hall of this type in the district. Worked in cottage The children started their kindergarten work about two months ago in a nearby cottage, but are anxious to move into their new building, which has all the latest kindergarten equipment. A full-time trained kindergarten teacher will be in charge, with a domestic assistant. For a nominal fee the children will receive their fruit and daily milk, and, in time, the committee hopes to provide a midday meal cooked in the modern all-electric kitchen. An upright baby grand piano was bought with funds raised for the committee by Mrs. S. Donsalves. A sum of £250 subsidised by the Warringah Shire Council went towards building costs. Members of the management committee include Mrs. Daniell, Mrs. Rudolph Mueller, Mr. C. Gow, and Mr. Frank Savage, who is president of the North Palm Beach Surf Club. Johnny Hawkes, one of Palm Beach's glamor boys, seems to me to spend the ideal life.

He runs a surfers' service at the Beach through summer, and spends the winter living a "Bongo-Bongo-I-don't-wantto-leave-the-Congo" life at Barrier Reef.

On Saturday he rescued a gent in difficulties in a moderate surf. The gent gave a grunt

(probably full of sea water) and walked some distance. He came back and gave Hawkes

May 30th, 1979: Special Meeting. 30th May, 1979 (Presidential Minute No. 41/79 cont'd) To support this view, the following is quoted from the judgement given by Richardson J • in a judgement relating a matter involving Fairfield Municipal Council; In my opinion, the principle in Forsberg's case did not rest upon the matter of expense involved in preparing a new plan and specifications or inconvenience in undertaking additional constructional work but upon the principle that a Council having accepted a plan of subdivision and communicated that acceptance cannot afterwards reject it."

Forsberg's case was one involving Warringah Shire Council. The legal position therefore would appear to be that Council cannot invoke any powers to oblige the subdivider to meet new requirements in connection with this matter, or to revoke the rights conferred upon the subdivider by virtue of its decision of 8th January, 1979. So far as (2) above is concerned, you will note from page 3 of the accompanying notes by the Shire Engineer, that the subdivider has indicated that, acting on legal advice, he is not prepared, at this stage, to discuss with the Council or its officers the question of the subdivision except so far as such discussions may be necessary in relation to the engineering conditions (details in connection with which have been submitted to the Engineering Department for approval). In other words, the subdivider has made it fairly plain that he is not prepared to surrender his rights in the matter or enter into any negotiations aimed at altering the nature of the subdivision which Council has already approved. Also appended for information is a copy of a letter of advice received from Council's Solicitors advising on Council's Aft powers in connection with this matter. IF That in view of the absence of power in the Council to revoke or vary the approval given by it on 8th January, 1979, and in view also of the obvious unwillingness of the subdivider to enter into discussions or negotiations in connection with the possible alteration or redesign of the approved subdivision, no further action be taken in this matter. (Before Judge White.)'

A PITT WATER SUBDIVISION'.

In the appeal under section-841 of the Local Government Act, on behalf of the executrices and trustees of the estate of the late Charles John Edward Forsberg, against the decision and disapproval of the Warringah Shire Council of a plan and design submitted by the appellants of a subdivision of three sections of the Bassett Darley Estate, fronting Pittwater Bay, the matter was allowed to stand over generally, to allow the appellants to consider whether they were prepared to allow three means of access to a frontage of 900 feet, or two to a frontage of 800 feet, with a depth of 30 feet above high water mark. His Honor said he thought some provision should be made for purchasers of the back portions of the subdivision for access to the water-side, and also some provision for certain portions of the frontage to Pittwater Bay for public recreation. Taking into consideration the area and situation generally of the land, it was proposed to subdivide, he was of opinion that an 800 feet frontage, with a depth of 30 feet divided into two portions should be allowed, or to divided into three portions, the frontage should be 900 feet. He did not think the appellants should be called upon to give up free of cost a 30 feet reservation along the whole frontage of their property. DISTRICT COURT. #### A PITTWATER SUBDIVISION.

Hearing was concluded of the appeal under section 3.1 of the Local Government Act, on behalf of Catherine Forssberg, Christina Elizabeth Forssberg, and Valetta Forssberg, executrices and trustees of the estate of Charles John Edward Forssberg, of Stancombe, Addison-road, Manly, against the decision and disapproval of the Warringah Shire Council, of a plan and design submitted by the appellants of a subdivision of three allotments of the Bassett Darley Estate, the lands having a frontage of about three quarters of a mile to the foreshores of Pittwater Bay. The respondent council disapproved of the plan on the grounds that it was not in accordance with ordinance 32 of the Local Government Act, 1919, and that in its opinion the amount of public, garden, and recreation space proposed to be provided by the subdivision was insufficient. The council also asked that there should be a 30ft reservation above high water mark along the foreshores, and that the means of access from the rear allotments in the subdivision to the foreshores should be 66ft wide in every instance, instead of 20ft, as provided in the plan for certain of the passages. Mr. Monnnun (Instructed by Mr. G. S. MacKellar) appeared for the appellants; and Mr. Halse Rogers (Instructed by Messrs. J. W. Maund and Christie) for the respondent council.

When the matter was last before the Court, his Honor suggested that, taking into consideration the area and situation generally of the land it was proposed to subdivide, a water frontage of 800ft above high water mark, with a depth of 30ft divided into two' portion"), should be allowed by the appellants, or It divided into three portions, a frontage of 900ft, as provision for purchasers of the back portion of the subdivision for access to the waterside, and as some provision for portions of the frontage to Pittwater Bay for public recreation. The matter was then allowed to stand over to allow the appellants to consider his suggestion.

His Honor was now informed that the appellant trustees had come to the conclusion that the suggestion, if carried out, would not be advantageous to the estate, and that they preferred to adhere to the original plan of subdivision. He said he thought a plan embodying the suggestion made by him with regard to water frontage reservations, and a provision that the means of access to such water frontages should be 66ft wide, should be submitted to the Court, and if such a plan were submitted he would approve of it. No order was made as to costs. DISTRICT COURT. (1922, November 2). The Sydney Morning Herald (NSW : 1842 - 1954), p. 6. Retrieved from <http://nla.gov.au/nla.news-article16035268>

A PALM BEACH SUBDIVISION.

Forssberg and another v the Council of the Shire of Warringah.

This was an appeal under Section 341 of the Local Government Act, 1919, by Christina Elizabeth Forssberg, of Stoncombe, Addison road, Manly, spinster, and Valetta Eccles, wife of Herbert Eccles, of Lauderville-avenue, Manly, sharebroker (the surviving executrices and trustees of the will of Charles John Edward Forssberg, deceased) against the decision and disapproval of the Council of the Shire of Warringah on the application of the plaintiffs for the approval of the council to the plan and design of a subdivision of a parcel of land comprising lots 20 to 25 Inclusive, of the Bassett Darley Estate. Pitt-water. Appellants submitted for the council's approval a plan of subdivision of a large block of land at Palm Beach, showing a road-lulka-road-running through it. The subdivision was bisected by another block known as the Barrenjoey Estate. The council in November last notified appellants by letter that the plan of subdivision had been approved, and certain work was carried out, but it subsequently refused to note the approval and place its seal on the plans unless the appellants agreed to so construct lluka-road to the boundaries of the Barren-joeey Estate that ' a Continuous thoroughfare could be made when that estate came to be subdivided. His Honor held that he had no jurisdiction in respect of the appeal. The position seemed to him that the council had given a decision in favour of the appellants, and yet they were appealing against it. He thought they had mistaken their remedy, and should have applied for a mandamus. Mr. Miles and Mr. Leaver (instructed by Mr. C. S. McKellar) appeared for the appellants; and Mr. Henry (Instructed by Messrs. J. W. Maund and Kelynack) for the respondent council. DISTRICT COURT. (1926, December 1). MANDAMUS.

Ex-parte Forssberg Trustees, re Warringah Shire.

(On the application of Mr. Rundell Milles and Mr. Leaver (instructed by Mr. G. S. McKellar) a rule nisi for mandamus was granted, calling upon the council of the Shire of Warringah to note its approval under seal upon a plan of subdivision No. 3 forwarded on February 2, 1926, and again on December 31, 1926, by the trustees of the estate of the late Charles John Edward Forssberg, and to direct the shire clerk to notify applicants that the requirements of the Local Government Act had been complied with. The area around Sand Point remained in the Wentworth Estate until the 23rd of August 1900 when Charles John Edward Forssberg purchased over 30 acres of the original Napier Grant fronting Pittwater.

Forssberg, who was a furniture dealer with offices in William Street in the city , and his family , did not occupy the land at Palm Beach instead residing at their home in Manly . When C . J. E Forssberg died in 1921 the Palm Beach land passed to his wife and two daughters who subdivided the land for sale in 1922.

Snapperman Beach Reserve, which was a part of this estate, was dedicated as a Public Recreation Area (refer Figure 3 – Certificate of Title) in 1927. The Reserve was transferred to the then Warringah Council on 5 October 1927. It was then transferred into Pittwater Council's name on 8 August 2000. It is thought that the Pittwater foreshore between Sand Point and Observation Point became known as 'Snapperman Beach' after a group of Chinese fishermen who caught and dried snapper there. The Reserve area, a narrow rectangular strip of land adjoining residential lots on the eastern boundary provides one of only a few remaining public access points to the Pittwater estuary along Snapperman Beach.

Woorak is a rural locality in north-west Victoria, 13 km from Nhill on the road which runs north-east to Jeparit. ... 'Woorak', it is thought, is derived from an Aboriginal word meaning plain country or mouth. Settlement on farm selections began in 1875, and numerous settlers were of the German Lutheran tradition.

The name 'Iluka' is reputedly a local Aboriginal word meaning 'near the sea'. It is thought that the Yaygir or Banjalang Aborigines occupied the area at the time of European colonisation. These people lived within a fairly small, well-defined area as the plenitude of resources negated the need for lengthy migrations. Yaygir country stretched from Coffs Harbour northwards to Evans Head, and inland to Cowper on the Clarence River. They were a coastal people.

MENINGITIS OUTBREAKS.

At the Gnowangerup Road Health & Vermin Board meeting held on October 22nd, considerable concern was felt by the members on account of the continued outbreaks of meningitis among the natives of the district. Dr. Boyd attended the meeting to advise the Board on actions necessary to be taken in an endeavour to isolate the disease as far as possible. The local protector of aboriginals, Cons. Wm. Adshead. and Mr. Wright of the United Abo's Mission also attended. Dr. Boyd said that in endeavouring to locate a carrier, it would be necessary to take swabs and these would be useless from a point of diagnosis as it would be necessary for him to have an incubator here and there was no incubator of a travelling nature in the State. Arrangements were being made to keep the natives separated in groups as much as possible to minimise the spread of the disease. Arrangements have also been made for possible carriers to be sent to Perth for examination. STOP PRESS—Three natives sent to Perth have been certified as carriers & confined for treatment. -----

THE FORESHORES.

RESUMPTIONS BY WARRINGAH.

SPLENDID RECORD.

During the past five years the ratepayers of Warringah Shire have paid £50,790 of the £68,956 authorised for the purchase of fore-shores and reserves.

The principal resumptions and their costs are:- Newport Beach reserve, £9600; Newport reserve, for access to Pittwater, £2200; Mona Vale Beach, £2800; Palm Beach, £4500; Lake Park extension, Narrabeen, £1900; Collaroy Beach reserve, £18,050, Deewhy Beach reserve extension, £2000; district park, £9500, Manly Municipal Council contributing a similar amount in respect of the last-mentioned purchase.

The matter was referred to the council meeting by the shire clerk (Mr. R. G. Jamieson), who stated that probably no other council in New South Wales could show such a fine record.

The president (Councillor Corkery) said that they could not be expected to go on burdening the ratepayers in that way indefinitely. The beaches were used by people who came in their thousands from all parts, and the acquisition of places of access, in his opinion, should be a national work. THE FORESHORES. (1929, August 9). ## Stancombe – Addison Road Manly Several private hospitals and nursing homes have been located in Manly over the years. The proximity to sea-bathing facilities and fresh air made Manly a popular choice among convalescing patients, particularly in the period following World War One. One of the best-known of these private hospitals was St Ronan's Private Hospital, which started up in about 1903, on Ocean Beach (North Steyne). In its early days it was owned by the Misses Le Mesurier, who offered maternity and convalescent care. Records in the State Archives show that by the 1910s St Ronan's was permitted to conduct medical, surgical and midwifery treatment, and could accommodate 14 patients. Miss Ada Black was resident masseuse. The hospital probably took its name from the British spa destination, St Ronan's Well, popularised by Sir Walter Scott's novel of that name.

One baby born at St Ronan's, on 24th May 1916, was Arthur Roden Cutler, who was later to become Sir Roden Cutler, Governor of New South Wales, winner of the Victoria Cross. Among those whose last days were spent at St Ronan's were the politician Ernest H Farrar, MLC, and the cricketer Reginald Wood. Wood was an Englishman who played cricket for Victoria, and was capped by England in their touring Test team of 1886/87. He died of alcoholic poisoning at St Ronan's in 1915, and was buried in Manly Cemetery. A finely-researched biography of him, Finally a Face, was published by sporting historian Philip Paine.

The hospital moved from its North Steyne position in circa 1934, to a new location in the house formerly known as Stancombe, on the corner of Osborne and Addison Road, Manly. It closed its doors in 1963.

Forssberg and Mrs. Forssberg, of 'Stancombe,' Manly, to Mr. Herbert Eccles, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Eccles, of Ashfield and Manly. The Cathedral was decorated with white flowers by friends of the bride. The service was full choral. The Precentor, Rev. G. M. Searcy, was the celebrant. The bride, who was given away by her brother, Mr. Victor, Forssberg, was simply gowned in ivory embossed chenille georgette. Eight tiers of pleated, georgette finished the gown in panels at each side, and a spray of orange blossom finished the spray each side and a spray of orange blossom was placed at the waist. The train was of plain georgette, and terminated in a fan of Carrickmacross lace. A white velvet rose was placed at the extreme edge of the train, and trails of orange blossom peeped out amongst the laces. The plain ivory tulle veil, which was lent by Mrs. A. Mackallar, was worn with a silver bandeau, and finished at each side with an orange blossom spray. A sheaf of Madonna lilies with white tulle streamers was carried. The three bridesmaids were Miss B. Forssberg and Miss C. #### DEATH OF MR. FORSSBERG.

A GRAND MAN GONE.

The death of Mr. Charles J. E. Forssberg came with tragic suddenness. He passed away at his late home, "Stancombe," Addison-road, Manly on the 26th ultimo. It was observed by his family that he appeared to be in excellent health, and was particularly bright, on the Monday night (25th ultimo), preceding his death. He retired to rest, rose next morning about 7 o'clock, apparently quite well, and went to the bathroom. Returning to his bedroom he collapsed, became unconscious, and remained in that condition till he breathed his last at 10.30 p.m. that night. The cause of death was cerebral hemorrhage.

He was 65 years of age and his death, in such painful circumstances, and when he appeared to be in robust health, was a great shock to his dear wife and children and other relatives, as well as to a very wide circle of friends.

The late Mr. Forssberg married Miss Catherine Hancock, daughter of the late Mr. Hancock, of "Woodlands," Mulgrave, which property only just recently passed out of the hands of the Hancock family. Their children numbered ten, viz., Beatrice, Christina, Valetta, Ruby, Marjorie, Mollie, Victor, Reginald, and Jack, who survive their father ; and Roy who fell in the Great War at Menin, Road on September 28th, 1917, after having just reached the front.

For many years the family lived at "Rosemont," Mulgrave, where the late Mr. Forssberg built a nice home and laid out an extensive orchard. But this was merely a hobby, for his large business interests in Sydney absorbed almost the whole of his time and attention until within a few years ago, when he began to take life a little easier. A few years ago he sold Rosemont, but retained a few acres along the railway line, where he built Cosy Cottage and put out the well-kept little orchard that is the admiration of all who see it from the train. This he used as a country resort. He rarely missed coming up to "Cosy Cottage" on Wednesdays, and it was often occupied by Mrs. Forssberg and some of the children. He later bought other property at Mulgrave.

Leaving Mulgrave as his permanent abode, he purchased the commodious and beautiful house and grounds known as "Stancombe," Manly, and that has been the family home for some years.

Besides the well-known furniture business in William-street, which he conducted so successfully for many years, the late Mr. Forssberg had extensive vested interests in city real estate and stocks. From a lowly beginning he achieved a position of wealth and affluence, due to keen business acumen, his fair dealing, and his personal popularity. There was no more honoured or respected business man, and none better known, in the city of Sydney, than the late Charles Forssberg.

At Tattersall's Club, of which he was a prominent member, there was no more popular man. He was genial, sociable and companionable at all times, and these attributes, and many other admirable traits, of character, attracted people to him and made life-long friend ships—and no wonder his death is so widely deplored. He identified himself with clean and wholesome sport, and was an enthusiastic bowler and amateur fisherman.

Intensely patriotic, he did more to help his country in the crucial period of the war than most people know of—and a fine son gave his life in the Empire's cause. He encouraged recruiting when men were sorely needed, identified himself with the Boy Scouts and urged them to their drill. He took a personal interest in the Windsor Rifle Club—for upwards of 20 years was their beloved captain—and in the early stages of the war attended the night drills with the members and insisted on every unit in the club learning his drill and to use a rifle. And his hand was ever in his pocket to help along every movement with which he identified himself. For many years he gave a valuable trophy annually to be shot for by members of Windsor Rifle Club—only a fortnight before his death he-announced his intention of giving the same liberal prize this year—and saw to it personally that every member became proficient with the rifle and went through his musketry course.

Men of such constancy and such unswerving fidelity to any cause he espoused are rare in any community—and no wonder the death of Captain Forssberg is so deeply deplored. He was, in very truth, a captain among men— one who had the capacity to lead and guide his fellows and the magnetism to attract them to him. All the members of Windsor Rifle Club were deeply attached to their captain, and they mourn for him now. For nearly 20 years they would have no other captain, though on several occasions he was desirous that he should be relieved of the captaincy of the club. He had a big space in his heart for Windsor—in spite of the natural public apathy and sleepiness of the old town he tried to boost it along. Some years ago he purchased a property in the town with the sole object of forming a bowling club to help arouse Windsor from its lethargy. It vexed his soul to realise that it could not be done. He organised a big carnival on the Hawkesbury Racecourse to try and get the people to enthuse. It cost him money, and with the help of a few patriotic townsmen the affair attracted a large crowd of people and was made a success. But he refused to sustain the effort single-handed, and gave Windsor up as a hopeless job. We mention these things to show what a thorough-going patriot the late Charles Forssberg was, and how hard he strove to make the great Hawkesbury district come into its natural heritage.

Apart from his public career—and we have not mentioned a tithe of his activities—he was a man whom to know was to honor. There was no veneer about him—he was always what he professed to be a plain, honest, outspoken man. But beneath the rugged exterior beat a heart of gold. His heart was big, generous and sympathetic, and the troubles of others, or a misunderstanding between himself and a friend, grieved him sorely. To his good heartedness many people in this district can testify from, practical experience, but when he lent helping hand no one ever knew of it from him, for he was one who followed the golden rule of doing good by stealth.

Such was the man whose mortal remains were laid to rest in the Waverley cemetery on Thursday afternoon of last week, while the billows of the vast Pacific rolled out a funeral dirge. The cortege left “Stancombe” by motor service, prior to which a short service was con-ducted at the house, by Rev. T. Jamieson Williams, who also carried out the burial rites of the Presbyterian Church at the graveside.

Practically every business house in the city and Manly was represented at the funeral, as well as the many public institutions with which the deceased was associated, and there were also present many relatives and personal friends. The chief mourners at the funeral were: Mrs. Forssberg (wife), the Misses Christina, Ruby, Marjorie, and Mollie Forssberg (daughters), Messrs. Victor, Reg., and Jack Forssberg (sons), Messrs. ## OBITUARY.

MRS CATHERINE FORSSBERG.

There was great grief in Windsor on Tuesday, when it became known that Mrs. Forssberg, relict of the late Charles J. E. Forssberg had passed away early that morning. Her husband died on the 26th July 1921, at 'Stancombe,' Addison Road, Manly, and it was there that Mrs. Forssberg passed away, after a long illness. She was a daughter of the late Mr. Handcock of "Woodlands," Mulgrave, and for many years Mr. and Mrs. Forssberg lived in close proximity to the old Handcock home — at 'Rosemont,' Mulgrave, now the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Wilcher.

Mr. Thomas Handcock is a brother of the deceased, and Mrs. Sid Pye, of Quaker's Hill, and Mrs. B. Halle Paine, of Moss Vale, are sisters.

Mr and Mrs. Forssberg had a large family. Their children numbered 10, viz., Beatrice, Christina, Valetta, Ruby, Marjorie, Mollie, Victor, Reginald and Jack, all of whom survive their parents; and Roy, who was killed in the Great War, at Menin Road, in September, 1917, just after he had reached the front.

When the late Mr. Forssberg sold the 'Rosemont' estate he retained a portion of it and built a 'cosy cottage' and put out a nice orchard. There the late Mrs. Forssberg and her children have been in the habit of spending holidays, so they never lost touch with the Hawkesbury district, which all the family loved so much. The late Mrs. Forssberg was a beautiful character, possessing a sweet disposition, and was loved by all who knew her. Between her and her family there was a bond of deep filial affection, and she was a mother who will be sorely missed. She was 64 years of age, and her life was spent in good works. Her death is deeply mourned by a large circle of friends, many of them in the Windsor district. The funeral took place on Wednesday, the remains being laid beside those of her late husband in the Waverley cemetery, the shores of which are lapped by the sad sea waves. The funeral proceeded from 'Stancombe' by motor, and was attended by a large and representative gathering, including a number of people from the Hawkesbury-district. OBITUARY (1926, January 8). Sir Herbert Lethington Maitland (12 November 1868 – 23 May 1923) was an Australian surgeon of the head and neck who was an early specialist in rhinoplasty. Bert Maitland was born at Surry Hills, New South Wales, the son of Duncan Mearns Maitland and Emily, née Dalgety. He attended Newington College (1883–1887)<sup>[2]</sup> and went up to the University of Sydney in 1888 from whence he graduated as a Bachelor of Medicine and Chirurgery with first-class honours in 1892.

After graduation he became a resident medical officer at Sydney Hospital and in 1893 a senior R.M.O. The following year Maitland began private practice in Elizabeth Street, Sydney and in 1895 he was appointed an honorary assistant surgeon at Sydney. He was appointed to the senior staff in 1902 and lectured to Sydney Hospital nurses from 1900 until 1909. When Sydney Hospital became a clinical school in 1909, Maitland was the first lecturer in clinical surgery. He was a councillor of the local branch of the British Medical Association from 1904 until 1916 and president for two years after that. Maitland also served as consultant surgeon at the Crown Street Women's Hospital, South Sydney Women's Hospital and The Coast Hospital. During World War I, Maitland was a surgeon and temporary lieutenant-colonel in the Australian Army Medical Corps at the 4th Australian General Hospital, Randwick. In 1914 the Maitlands moved to a home and consulting rooms at 147 Macquarie Street, Sydney that is now a wing of the Royal Australasian College of Physicians headquarters. Two years later he became a director of Sydney Hospital and served on the house committee.

Maitland played Rugby Union for Newtown and during the 1890s was a regular boxer in Sydney. He was Honorary Surgeon at Rushcutters Bay Stadium from 1908. He played cricket, swam and shot as well as being a noted angler, winning competitions in fly-casting and big-game fishing. Maitland was a skilful and expert angler who sailed from Sydney, Port Hacking and Port Stephens from 1906 to land tuna, kingfish and salmon. He is regarded as the father of game fishing in Australia.

Maitland died in his medical rooms of coronary artery disease. An impromptu mourning procession occurred when doctors, medical students and nurses from Sydney Hospital, and Sydney citizens walked from his home and congregated at Queen Victoria's statue near St James' Church. Survived by his wife, who later married Sir Frederick Edward French, and two sons, a third son had predeceased him, Maitland was buried in Waverley cemetery.

Sir Herbert Lethington Maitland (1868-1923), surgeon and sportsman, was born on 12 November 1868 at Surry Hills, Sydney, son of London-born Duncan Mearns Maitland, civil engineer, and his native-born wife Emily, née Dalgety. Educated at Newington College and the University of Sydney (M.B., Ch.M., 1892), young Bert was more distinguished for athletic than academic achievements. His professional life focused on Sydney Hospital where he was resident medical officer in 1892 and senior R.M.O. next year. In 1894 he left to begin private practice in Elizabeth Street but in December 1895 was appointed honorary assistant surgeon.

On 8 July 1897 at Marrickville he married Mabel Agnes Cook (d.1950). He lived and worked at 6 Lyons Terrace and about 1914 moved to a house he renovated at 147 Macquarie Street.

Maitland matured quickly at surgery of the head and neck for which he became famous. At Sydney Hospital he worked with W. H. Goode, then past his prime. Within four months of appointment, Maitland performed a rhinoplasty (nose reconstruction) which was rare enough to warrant presentation to his peers; the patient's family believed they had witnessed a miracle. By the time he was appointed to the senior staff in December 1902 his practice was almost entirely surgical. He lectured to Sydney Hospital nurses in 1900-09, and was an early medical member of the Australasian Trained Nurses' Association from 1899 and on its first board of examiners (1906-08). He was first lecturer in clinical surgery when Sydney Hospital became a clinical school of the university in 1909. Students and young doctors were attracted to the hospital for the sole reason that Maitland was there. He and his colleague Robert Steer Bowker operated in the very large main theatre at the same time on Thursday afternoons. Their rivalry was exhilarating for visitors but a strain for staff responsible for the smooth flow of patients. Maitland preached the gospel of hard work and not uncommonly continued an operating session far into the night. His generosity to the sick poor was proverbial.

Maitland did not have much time for writing, but his several articles in the Australasian Medical Gazette between 1898 and 1912 were distinguished, as were his lectures, by their clarity and common sense. One of these, 'A radical method of extirpating malignant growths in the neck secondary to mouth carcinoma' (20 October 1906), was noticed in J. F. Binnie's Manual of Operative Surgery. Maitland later contributed to a collection of papers on specialist surgery edited by Binnie and published in Philadelphia in 1917. He was honorary secretary of the Medical Benevolent Association of New South Wales almost continuously in 1900-23; a councillor of the local branch of the British Medical Association in 1904-16 and president in 1911-12; a consultant surgeon at the Women's Hospital, Crown Street, from 1905; at South Sydney Women's Hospital from 1915 and at the Coast (Prince Henry) Hospital from about 1914.

A confidant of politicians including James McGowen, he was knighted in 1915. In 1915-19 Maitland was on the active list of the Australian Army Medical Corps as surgeon and temporary lieutenant-colonel at the 4th Australian General Hospital, Randwick. Here he applied his talents to over one thousand repair, grafting and plastic operations with a 'skill and quickness so phenomenal that he would frequently complete as many as fifteen in a single morning'.

In 1916 Maitland's obligations to Sydney Hospital were increased at 'considerable personal sacrifice' when he became a director and was put on the house committee. His influence was soon apparent. Among other things he initiated improvements in business procedures, waged a vigorous campaign to obtain better facilities for patients, and promoted the interests of medical students. At his suggestion a lecture hall was built on the flat roof of the Renwick Pavilion in 1920. The board named it after him.

'Handsome Bertie' had a 'mobile face lit with dark eyes which his enthusiasms kindled like live coals'. He was of medium height, gap toothed, prematurely grey, good humoured, gregarious, charming, kindly, immensely popular—and much given to smoking and swearing. He had been a member of the Newtown Rugby Union team in 1888 and from the mid-1890s boxed regularly at the Sydney Amateur Gymnastic Club. When his friend Hugh D. McIntosh opened the Rushcutters Bay Stadium in 1908, Maitland was honorary surgeon. To the end he was renowned for his impromptu demonstrations of floor exercises and 'the best bloody biceps of the lot'. He also swam daily, played cricket, was a good shot and keen fisherman with his own boat, the Idler. He was president of the New South Wales Anglers Casting Club and winner of competitions in fly-casting and big-game fishing. He was a Freemason and member of the Australian Club. Well-known in theatre circles, he was a friend of the entrepreneur Hugh Ward. Sporting men reputedly named their houses after him and one named a horse Sir Maitland, which did quite well at Randwick.

Maitland was visibly aged by the heavy work of the war years and a bout of influenza during the 1919 pandemic. Late on the afternoon of 23 May 1923, feeling unwell, he rested in his rooms and died of coronary vascular disease. Hundreds of doctors, medical students and nurses, and scores of citizens processed from his home to Queen Victoria's statue near St James' Church. He was buried with Anglican rites in Waverley cemetery near his youngest son who had died of influenza in 1910. He was survived by his wife and two sons who were still medical students. His estate, valued for probate at £61,209, was left to his wife.

Sydney Hospital launched an over-ambitious memorial fund and the Maitland Theatre Suite was completed in 1930. The hospital's medical alumni also established the Maitland oration in 1935 which is still given at irregular intervals. Perhaps the memorial that would have pleased him most was the Sir Herbert Maitland Stakes, a weight-for-age event at the Victoria Park Racing Club, whose president was another Sydney Hospital director, Sir Joynton Smith. The hospital holds a cartoon by Lionel Lindsay and a posthumous portrait by John Longstaff was presented to the National Art Gallery of New South Wales by Lady Maitland in 1944. That year she married Sir Frederick Edward French.

GOLF CLUB DANCE

THE Palm Beach Golf Club held the 'first annual ball on Thursday night, at the Rendezvous. There was a full attendance of members and their friends, numbering about two hundred. Besides dancing to' excellent music, there were cards for non-dancers, and the evening was so successful that it was accepted as the augury of future annual functions. Among those who attended were Lady Maitland, with her sister, Miss Cook, Mesdames Hammond, A. H. Aplett, W. Woodley, Peters, Rush, A. Brough, ton, D. B. Wiltshire, M. ### Marlin Landed Off Palm Beach

Fishing alone off Palm Beach early yesterday morning, Dr. D. G. Maitland, of Sydney, landed a 1151b black marlin. The marlin fought for an hour before it was gaffed.

"It was exciting work playing the fish and managing the boat at the same time," Dr. Maitland said.

This was the second black marlin he has landed single-handed.

Last night, patients at Sydney Hospital were served with steaks off the marlin. Marlin Landed Off Palm Beach (1946, January 26). The Sydney Morning Herald (NSW : 1842 - 1954), p. 3. Retrieved from <http://nla.gov.au/nla.news-article27918675>

In November 2021 the Australian Financial Review reports under 'Rich Lister's widow sells Palm Beach house for a record $27m'

: Take a bow multimillionaire hospitality entrepreneur John Szangolies and wife, Heather, who have bought a Palm Beach getaway for about $27 million.

The Nelson family's Palm Beach house is privately set off Snapperman Beach.

What makes the 1970s brick house 40 kilometres up the coast a record-breaker is not just the scarcity of holiday homes for sale before summer, but also the 1200 square metres of north-facing waterfront land set privately on the northernmost stretch of waterfront away from the rubberneckers on nearby Snapperman Beach.

It's an appeal Szangolies might appreciate from his beachfront getaway down the road, bought for $9.2 million in late 2016 after the sale of his Urban Purveyor Group of restaurants to Quadrant private equity group for almost $200 million.

John Szangolies already owned another Palm Beach weekender. Daniel Munoz

Szangolies' new holiday house has for the past 37 years been the weekender of Virginia Nelson, the wife of late tobacco magnate Arthur Nelson, who in the 1990s was the rich-list owner of Australia's biggest tobacco wholesaler.

Proving that Iluka Road residents never leave – they just swap houses – the Nelsons bought the house in 1984 for $1.07 million from an art collector and director of leather goods company Loris H. Hassall, Geoffrey Hassall, who later bought one of the few other double blocks on Iluka Road for $1.85 million.

The Nelsons had quietly listed the family retreat with LJ Hooker Palm Beach's David Edwards and his son, BJ, with a guide of $24 million, neither of whom were contactable last week. But sources say it is expected to be a knock-down rebuild for the Rose Bay-based Szangolies.
